5	between statutory agencies and the third sector.	yes	Progress discussed and evidenced at NCIG meetings
	Health Boards and Local Authorities to develop neurological education frameworks to support the training and development needs of staff working with people living with a neurological condition.		There are no frameworks developed at present although Neurology and Neurosciences Department hold speciality interest meetings, conferences and educational workshops throughout the year for staff, for example Epilepsy, MS, PD and Brain Injury Conferences etc. Clinicians provide teaching on training courses at Swansea and Cardiff Universities, and staff are in the process of developing an MSc in Neurorehabilitation with the Health & Well-being Academy at Swansea University. Many of the conferences and teaching events include
6		partial	patients who contribute to presentations/training with clinicians.
7	Health Boards to establish Neurological Service User Forums in partnership with people living with neurological conditions to inform awareness raising needs and service improvements which meet their needs.	yes	A number of patient focus groups (in collaboration with third sector partners) have been set up e.g. Parkinsons UK Cymru, MS Society, Welsh Neurological Alliance, and there is a Brain Injury Patient Forum. The Brain Injury Patient forum is involved in teaching, mentorship and advising on the website design and service development
8	Health Boards in collaboration with NHS Wales Informatics Services (NWIS) to develop clear and easy access to information and support about neurological conditions through a single NHS portal (once for Wales) linking with statutory and third sector condition specific organisations.	yes	The Neuroscience Service is in the process of developing a regional website. Information on pathways will be included and specialist services will have links to statutory and third sector condition specific organisations
9	Health Boards to involve patients and carers in the design of services; service users' views on services are sought regularly and acted on to ensure continuous improvement. Health Boards and Welsh Government to publish information on NHS performance for neurological conditions that is easily available to the public.	yes	Two engagement events have been organised for February 2020 in Swansea and Carmarthen. There are a number of examples where patients and carers have been involved in service development work, for example patients and carers have been central to the development of the community brain injury services and patient forums provide feedback on service development work.
